BROTT TO CONDUCT CONCERT TONIGHT

The first orchestral concert of the current festival commemorating the 50th anniversary of the founding of McGill's Conservatorium of Music will be given tonight at 8.30 in Moyse Hall.

Alexander Brott, noted Montreal musician, member of the Faculty of Music, and Assistant Conductor of the Montreal Symphony Orchestra, will conduct a student orchestra of twenty members in tonight's concert.

Works of the classical through the modern periods will be featured. The complete program is as follows: Concerto Grosso No. 5 in D major by Handel, Piano concerto by Dittersdorf, Rakastava Suite by Sibelius and Simple Symphony by Britten.

The concerto grosso of George Frederick Handel, one of twelve written as opus 6, is rated among the masterpieces of concerti grossi of all time. Written for two solo violins, solo cello and strings, the performance will feature Eugene Husaruk and Edward Kuklak, violinists, and Peter Czuba, cellist.

Karl von Dittersdorf, an 18th century Viennese composer, was a prolific writer of music: he had to his credit some 25 operas, numerous oratorios, concerti, works for chamber orchestra, and 12 symphonies including "The Rescue." His piano concerto is a light, melodious work. It will be played by Donald Thomson, pianist.

Rakastava Suite is Sibelius' opus 14. As are many works of this Modern Finnish master, it is based on a saga of this native country.

Benjamin Britten's "Simple Symphony for Strings" was written at the age of twelve and orchestrated when the composer was 19, early revealing the talent of one of Britain's foremost contemporary composers.

OVERFLOW CROWD...?

Marvin Gameroff, president of the Students' Society, was forced to cancel the Students' Society meeting scheduled for 1 pm Friday when an estimated 51 people turned up for it.

Of these 51 students, eight were Scarlet Key, four Red Wing, six Students' Executive Council, five Daily staffers, one photographer, one PA operator, Gameroff, and Mr. Ralph Shackell, secretary-treasurer of the Students' Society.

A quorum consists of 300 students.

JOHN B. LEWIS HEADS BELLAIRS RESEARCH INST.

John B. Lewis, a young Ph.D. graduate of McGill, has been appointed head of the Bellairs Research Institute in the Barbados. The research subject is fishing.

The Institute was founded and donated by Commander Carlyon Bellairs who was influenced by the Massey Report and felt that he wanted McGill to profit from the conditions of marine research of Barbados. He also hoped that connection with the university would be beneficial to the island which was his former home.

This institute will work in close cooperation with the Barbados Experimental Fishery Station. Discoveries made in the Barbados will be checked in the McGill Zoological Library. Dr. Lewis main ambition is to persuade fishermen in the Barbados not to overcatch the supply of fish.

The Bellairs Research Institute of McGill will act as an intermediary in the close friendship between the West Indies and Canada.

$10,000 ENDOWED FOR UNIVERSITY SCHOLARSHIP

Principal Cyril F. James has announced that an anonymous donor has given $10,000 to the University as an endowment to establish a scholarship in memory of the late Robert W. Sharwood.

Senate has decided that this Memorial Scholarship will be of the normal value of $400 per annum, tenable in any year of the undergraduate course in Medicine. The award will be made only on the basis of distinguished academic standing and financial need, and the winner in any one session will be eligible to re-apply for the following year.

REAL-LIFE TRAGEDY HITS PLAYERS' CLUB

Real-life tragedy struck the Players' Club sometime before Saturday evening's performance, on the final day of one of the most successful runs in the history of the Club. Members discovered the loss of $300 worth of properties, including two dress suits, two pairs of shoes, and one suitcase.

The suits, both in excellent condition, were rented; the other articles belonged to members of the cast.

Heavy Loss

Despite sell-outs for every performance during the five day run, the theft caused a heavy financial loss to the Club, in addition to minor changes in the dress of the play itself.

Shame!

When asked for a comment on the robbery, Neil Madden, president, said, "It's a shame, after so many people helped to make the show a success, to see it ruined."

Appreciation

However he was able to speak a bit more enthusiastically about the students' appreciation of "good theatre when it's done well," and mentioned the possibility of further plays in January, either experimental one-act plays or original work by students.

XMAS CARDS GO ON SALE AT UNION

A series of UNICEF greeting cards will be on sale from today until Wednesday in the Union at $1.00 for a box of ten colorful lithographer cards.

The series which is called "Joy for the World's Children" is designed by the noted American illustrator of children's books, and depicts the amusements of boys and girls in five different countries: Korea, Indonesia, Iran, Austria and Mexico.

Of the 900 million children in the world today, some 600 million are without adequate food, clothing shelter or minimum medical protection. UNICEF which is aiding over 25 million children in some eighty countries, depends on voluntary contribution for financing its work.

It is estimated that each dollar in cards sold will help provide milk for six children for a week, or vaccine to protect ten youngsters against tuberculosis, or DDT to protect six children for a year in malaria-ridden countries.

Graduating students please return your proofs and biographies as soon as possible. The last date for returning proofs is Dec. 10.

CANON C. E. RAVEN TO LEAD MISSION HERE

Canon Charles E. Raven, Chaplain to Her Majesty the Queen and former Vice-Chancellor of Cambridge University, a world renowned scientist and theologian will be the leader of a religious mission at McGill which will be held from January 24 to 28.

The Mission will have as its theme "Christ and the Modern Opportunity" and is a combined effort on the part of seven campus Protestant religious club with the support of members of the Faculty of Divinity.

The Mission Committee feels that they have obtained in Canon Raven one of the outstanding Christian scholars of the age, who stands firmly on both theological and scientific ground.

He has published a score of books ranging in title and scope from "The Gospel and the Church" in 1939 to "English Naturalists from Neckam to Ray" in 1947. His latest works have dealt with the impact of science on religion and include "Natural Religion and Christian Theology" and "Science and Religion."

The intention of these lectures the committee has stated is to present in rational and debatable terms the basis of Christian thought in the world today.

Tickets For French Comedies On Sale Today

Tickets will go on sale today for the English Department's production of two French Comedies which open for three performances on December 9. These plays will be the third in a series of great but unfamiliar dramatic masterpieces that have been revived under the direction of Professor S. W. Porter.

The two French comedies are both classics of the French stage: the first is Alfred de Musset's "The Caprice de Marianne" which has never before been presented on this Continent. The other play is an old medieval farce "Pierre Pathelin", and is of unknown authorship.

THE YEAR'S PROSPECTS

McGill University is an institution of clubs and societies. So many undergraduate organizations are there, in fact, that some people have been heard to comment that McGill is being "clubbed to death."

Any lunch hour or evening sees several clubs holding meetings or parties in the Union or elsewhere. With the multitude of varied events offered the student body, something is likely to suffer. Every year at least one well-meaning campus group works hard to prepare some special event, only to have it fail due to lack of attendance.

At this point the old war cry of "student apathy" goes up from representatives of that group and anyone else they can get to agree with them.

True it is that some events have been notorious flops; SCOPE sponsored a speech in Moyse Hall last year that was attended by six people; but, on the other hand, SCOPE also sponsored a piano recital that jammed the Union ballroom to overflowing.

The Players' Club has in the past had trouble with small attendance at their Moyse Hall productions; this year they have started off with a bang by working within their limitations. "Hedda Gabler" was at once a sellout and an artistic success.

On the whole, extra-curricular events at McGill are not flops, and we think that this year may prove to be one of the most successful of recent years.

Freshman Reception was the best organized in years; the annual student-professor event was a roaring success instead of its usual spectacular failure; the blood donor clinic set a new record; Combined Charities is, at last count, holding its own; eager and able crews are at work on the Prom, the Red and White Revue and Winter Carnival.

The only major fly in the ointment this year is the Music Faculty's 50th Anniversary Festival, which has had minute attendance so far; lack of interest in the Faculty's achievement is the most popular excuse being given, but we venture to suggest that the music presented to date has been too far off the beaten track for most people's tastes.

The festival's remaining major concerts — tonight and a week from Wednesday — are far more appetizing to the general public. We hope they will be attended accordingly.

Reply To Reluctant Donator

Dear Sir:

When it comes to the give and take of a literary controversy the organizers of a charity campaign find themselves in a peculiarly difficult position. For although they wish to present their side of the case as forcefully as possible, they must be careful not to offend their opponents. For somewhat unconvincing reasons a few supposedly mature college students seem to adopt the attitude that, even though they are "all for combined charities as such", since they disagree with the way the campaign is being run they will refuse to give a "single red cent". This is equivalent to refusing to work in a course because you don't like the professor or perhaps the way he talks. If we were to follow this to its logical conclusion none of us would pass next year. So with the sincere plea that those who do not approve of our methods do not let this fact blind them to the need for their contributions, herewith the case for the defence.

Thursday's correspondent complains that many have been "literally forced to shell out." The picture arises in our minds of two Amazonian canvassers cornering a shuddering engineer, grabbing him by the ankles and shaking the carfare from his trouser pockets. Not a bad idea, perhaps, but we don't think it's been tried yet.

"I intensely dislike being told that the average donation was two dollars, the implication being that I also am to give two dollars whether I like it or not." Students are, of course, free to draw any implications they like from the statistical fact about last year's campaign. It is clear that the writer objects not to the fact (for surely he is not waging war on the truth), but to the implication which he himself has drawn. Incidentally, we don't think it's a bad implication, and although we never asked for two dollars (or even one dollar) contributions, the sum does not seem an entirely unreasonable one in view of the average student's expenditure on himself in the course of, say, a Saturday night date. Surely most students do not have to look very far to see many who are considerably worse off than themselves?

"The organizers had better change their attitude or lower the objective to a reasonable sum." The attitude objected to, it seems, is our naive conviction that the 5,000 students of McGill University should be able to scrape up between them an average of 100 cents apiece once a year for five admittedly worthy charities. What would the writer consider a reasonable objective? An average donation of 80 cents (last year's record) or less? In any case, not being mathematically talented ourselves, we prefer to keep it in nice round numbers. But please, we repeat, it is the charity itself which is the most important, not the method of collecting for it or the individuals involved. The attitude which needs to be changed is the one which blinds itself to this truism.

Fortunately, results to date would lead us to believe that the great majority of the students and canvassers are aware of the very real need which underlies a combined appeal of this sort.

Correction

Dear Sir:

My platform for the position of S.E.C. representative for Commerce includes the dropping of budgeting for Union room rentals for Undergraduate organizations of the S.E.C.

Last Wednesday's meeting of the S.E.C. passed a motion to this effect. Would you please bring it to the attention of your readers that, due to your regulations, my platform was handed in before this meeting took place?

Letter to the Editor:

Constitutional Amendment

Dear Sir:

At the next meeting of the Students' Executive Council, a motion will be presented to change Article Three of the Constitution of the McGill Daily. This article, as it stands now, reads that "... in the editorial column, the Managing Board shall be free to express whatever opinions it holds, save that no editorial shall treat of a religious or a political question in a partisan way. ..."

If the motion before the S.E.C. passes, the limitation on the Managing Board's freedom of expression will read: "... save that no editorial shall treat of a religious question in a partisan way or express support for any political party. ..."

Although this change may seem only a minor question of wording, it does have the effect of allowing the editorial column to be used as a springboard for partisan politics without the explicit mention of the name of any party.

The Daily has always been a forum for the exchange of political opinions and arguments on the campus — it would be very lax in its duties to the student body if it did not — but until recently these exchanges have been kept outside of the editorial columns themselves.

Although the Daily is technically not the official organ of the S.E.C. or the student body, and the opinions expressed in the editorial column reflect only the ideas of the managing board, there is a certain amount of extra coloring to an opinion expressed there that is lacking if expressed elsewhere in the paper. One might almost call it a quasi-official opinion, for that is the effect it has on the reader's mind.

The relationship of the Daily to the student body is very much like that of the C.B.C. to the Canadian people. The latter organization has a proud record and a firm policy of allowing complete freedom of political expression on the airwaves yet not interfering by expressing the opinion of either the government or the Board of Governors of the C.B.C.

This does not mean that the editorial board should be restricted from expressing opinions about government policies. These governmental policies are often of vital importance to us as students, and should, by all means, be commented upon editorially. But a criticism or support of Conservatism, Liberalism, or Socialism is something better left to the non-editorial sections of the Daily.

Within the last month we have already seen two examples of what political editorials can mean. Even though these editorials were completely unconstitutional at the time they were written, they serve as perfect models of the type of thing that the proposed amendments will allow.

We sincerely hope that when the S.E.C. considers the proposals this week, they will keep these criticisms in view and reject the amendment.

Earl Kruger, B.C.L. III

(Ed. Note—We do not consider the two editorials in question to have been unconstitutional. They were not treating any political question in a partisan way.)

ARTS AND SCIENCE — ELECT TWO

Michael Butler

Chairman, Tri-Service Ball Committee 1954-55.

Winter Carnival 1953-54.
Manager, Rugger team 1954.
COTC (Armoured Corps) 1952-55.
Arts and Science Debating 1952-53.

We are convinced that Mike Butler is the best man to represent the students of Arts and Science in the Students' Executive Council. We wholeheartedly support his program, and feel that his proven ability and sound judgment well suit him for a responsible position in student government.

Mike is strongly in favour of a new Union, and feels that definite Council action is both possible and necessary.

The first step is to approve a concrete plan for the building, so that we may have a specific financial objective. Even more important is active student interest and support for this project.

Use of Students' Society money for a New Union fund is one tangible expression of support, and, Mike thinks, one which the Council can well afford. He supports the contribution of a substantial part of the $48,000. surplus to that end.

We support this program. We support Mike Butler for SEC member from Arts and Science.

Colleen Cooil

As your elected representative from Arts and Science to the Students' Executive Council, I shall direct my greatest efforts towards the successful achievement of these points:

1. I will urge SEC withdrawal from NFCUS. McGill has long been a member and supplied funds to an organization which has not accomplished its objectives, so far as this university is concerned.
2. I will promote a student Book Exchange. It would reduce students book expenses, and, in addition, provide year-round availability of second-hand textbooks at a central location.
3. I will promote, with ASUS aid, an Arts and Science Journal. Worthwhile papers by Arts and Science students do not receive the recognition they merit.

Colleen Cooil is a third year Arts student, majoring in economics and political science. She is an accomplished public speaker and debater. She has had executive experience at the Newman Club, and is assistant Secretary of the Winter Carnival. Colleen has served on committees in the Choral Society and the Players' Club. She is active in athletics, as a member of the McGill Outing Club, the women's hockey team and squash team.

Basically I believe that all decisions made by individual SEC members should, in the end, be made with an eye to the interests of the University as a whole.

To now express dogmatic opinions concerning current campus issues would be against all that would be correct, for I do not feel I have heard all arguments pro and con on many of these issues and therefore do not feel I can state now how I would vote in the future.

However, I would sincerely welcome the opportunity of working with Marvin Gameroff in an effort to continue his good work.

Hugh Faulkner

We have all personally known Hugh Faulkner for a number of years, and we know of absolutely no one whom we could more strongly recommend for SEC.

In such positions as an experienced Winter Carnival executive and as president of the IFC he has admirably demonstrated that he has outstanding powers of leadership and organization, together with an exceptional personality.

Hugh has been very active in every phase of campus life from McGill Open House to an executive in the United Nations Club. We who are privileged to sign Hugh's pen sketch, sincerely hope you will vote for him.

John Sanderson

Although it seems to be regular political practice, I consider it hypocritical to make campaign promises that one has no intention of keeping. Therefore I shall not do so.

The SEC is largely an administrative body and as such endeavors to act as the Executive Council of you, the students. In the short space available I can only state certain issues that I believe should be brought before the SEC. In brief:

1. We want cheerleaderettes!
2. The feasibility of a faculty-wide Book Exchange.
3. The publishing of official SEC minutes.
4. Immediate action on a new Union.
5. The large budget surplus of the SEC.
6. The furtherance of better relations between McGill and the honorable Premier of Quebec.

In short, I sincerely promise to represent my fellow students to the best of my ability and to do my utmost to carry out their wishes.

At Montreal High John was Editor of the Annual and on the Students' Council. Since coming to McGill on a public speaking scholarship, he has been a Bovey Shield Finalist, a cheerleader, on the Senior Track Team, the Scarlet Key Society and is on the Winter Carnival Executive.

Barbara Notkin

The planks of my platform are practical, purposeful, possible.

- 1) Typewriters in library for student use. Term papers and notes can be typed by all at a minimum cost.
- 2) Co-operative support for the McGill National Club Council towards the realization of an International House.

3) Opportunities to watch SEC at work through periodic open meetings.

4) Strengthening McGill NFCUS to fight within the National Organization for principles and programs that will make it work.

5) Stressing necessity of New Union through concrete suggestions by a reorganized committee.

6) Distribution of the surplus funds ($48,000) proportional to campus needs: New Union (50%), student activities, maintenance of old Union.

7) Speedy realization of a second hand book exchange open to all students.

Barbara Notkin

We endorse Barbara for SEC Representative because:

1. Her two years on the ASUS Executive have acquainted her with the needs and problems of that Faculty.

2. Her positions on Freshman Reception Committee, WUS Committee, Hillel Governing Board, and Daily (Associate Features Editor) have developed her initiative and responsibility.

3. Her presentation of 1954's Professors' Raft has proven her organizational qualities.

4. Her election to the Red Wing Society and Women's Union Executive has shown her enthusiasm and co-operation in whatever she undertakes.

I believe that the SEC, being the representative body of the McGill students, and the voice of the campus, should contain individuals with varied experience, practical knowledge, and a keen interest in student affairs; particularly on important campus issues. I believe members of the SEC should urge greater participation in, and recognition of the many activities on the campus.

If elected, I will uphold these principles and work hard and sincerely on any problem which confronts the SEC.

Anne Lucas, possessing an outstanding and varied record, entered McGill from Compton in 1952. Active in Choral Society, NFCUS and Winter Carnival skating in her freshman year, she worked for the Carnival Committee as a sophomore and was a Big Sister in Freshmen Receptions. That year, the Women's Union made her co-chairman of the Graduate Dinner. On the executive of the 1954-1955 Athletics Nights Committee, she is also to help with SCOPE and has been appointed as Telephone Committee Chairman by the Women's Union. It would be easy to make a long list of grandiose promises that are impossible to carry out. I just support the following platform:

A committee should be organized to allocate money donated to the SEC. In this way admission to student functions could be lowered.

The SEC should curtail expenses for capital improvements on the present Union; this money could be put to better use for a new one.

Much red tape is involved in money transactions between different organizations of the SEC. The Daily and the Revue pay rent to the Union for the use of their offices. This type of budgeting should be eliminated.

If elected I shall perform my duties to the best of my ability.

If elected my policy as Commerce representative will be:

1. A closer liaison between the CUS and the SEC.

2. FINANCE. (a) Demand that this year's Surplus be spent only in the interests of the whole University. (b) There must be an Annual Inventory of all club Assets.

3. I personally feel that the present NFCUS organization offers nothing for McGill students.

4. Emphasize the need of a New Union to the University Administration.

5. Investigate the possibility of reestablishing a 5-day Daily.

At all times the students interests will be my primary consideration.

Donald Beauprie

During the seven years that he has attended McGill, Don Beauprie has been active in extra-curricular affairs.

At Dawson College, he was vice-president of the Camera Club, and participant in many nocturnal water-fights.

While at McGill, he was a member of the Chemical Institute of Canada, and the Rifle Club.

A 1951 Chemistry graduate, Don gained a year's business experience, then returned to the faculty of Dentistry, where he was elected class social chairman in first year.

At present, he is class purchasing agent, vice-president of the Dental Undergraduate Society, Chairman of the Library Committee, a member of the SCM, and dental representative to the Scarlet Key Society.

Don has always been keenly interested in, and an active supporter of dental undergraduate activities. He devotes much of his valuable time to his fellow students with the busy job of purchasing agent.

In view of these qualifications, we believe that Don Beauprie will capably represent the Dental students if elected to the Student Executive Council.

Too often in past years, the true functions of dentistry's SEC representative have not been seriously considered in the election of a candidate. The SEC is not an honour wherein membership is an award; it is, rather, the governing body of the Students' Society and is the official spokesman for all students.

If dentistry wishes to have a respected and powerful voice on the Council — a guarantee of adequate representation — then dentistry must elect a candidate with (1) experience in campus-wide student affairs and (2) an understanding of the problems specific to dental students.

Frank Shamy is our candidate for the SEC because we believe he is exceptionally qualified for this post. His record at McGill over the past six years speaks conclusively for itself. It characterizes a popular and successful leader whose extra-curricular activity has brought him in contact with all phases of student life. Briefly, his record is: —

(1) Daily, 1949-53; Asst. Sports Editor, 1951-52; Executive Editor (Managing Board), 1952-53.

(2) Junior Prom Executive, 1951.

(3) Handbook, Editor-in-chief, 1951-52.

(4) Dental Review, 1952-54; Managing Editor 1953-54.

(5) Class President, 3rd year dentistry, 1954-55.

(6) Sir William Macdonald Scholarship, 1951-52; Faculty Scholarship, Arts & Science, 1952-53.

ENGINEERING

David C. Ellis

If elected, I promise to uphold and encourage the interest of the Engineering Undergraduates to the best of my ability.

I am in favor of NFCUS as a body representing Canadian Student opinion, but unless a definite program benefitting all students in member Universities is followed, I feel that the money given to its support is being wasted.

A new Union is obviously needed. So far this year the SEC has shown a surplus. Instead of giving free dances, this money could be put to better use, for example, in a New Union Fund.

I am against the rebate given to students from the Book Store profits and heartily endorse a scholarship fund to be set up from these profits.

David C. Ellis

Pen Sketch

We fully endorse Dave Ellis as the logical choice for Engineering Representative to the SEC. Since entering McGill in 1951 he has shown himself to be a competent organizer and willing worker as exemplified by the following enumeration of his activities: —

Plumber's Ball Committee—1954
Treasurer, 1955 Co-Chairman;
Scarlet Key — 1954;
Freshman Reception Committee — 1955 — Chairman of the Football Dances;

Winter Carnival — 1954.
In view of these facts, we will place our vote for Dave on December 2nd.

Malcolm Lefcort

First and foremost, I promise to do my best to represent the best interests of Engineering at all times, both in my capacity as Engineering representative on the SEC and as a member of the EUS executive. As a member of the SEC I would...

1) Strive to promote better understanding between the EUS and other undergraduate bodies on campus. Engineering is now a recognized and honorable profession. It's time this was realized on campus.

2) Agitate for two Engineering representatives on the SEC.

3) Work towards a new and improved Union.

As a member of the EUS executive I would try to improve the overcrowded locker room situation and the inadequate common room facilities.

Malcolm D. Lefcort

Pen Sketch

Entering McGill in 1951 from Westmount High School, Malcolm has maintained an enviable scholastic record as well as a high interest in the affairs of the EUS and the SEC. He has been a University Scholar for the last three years and a member of the Phi Epsilon Alpha Honor Society for the last two.

We feel that his unequalled ability combined with his interest in the welfare of our faculty make Malcolm Lefcort the man most suited for Engineering representative on the SEC.

Maurice G. Vezina

As candidate for the post of SEC Representative, I feel it is my duty to make a definite statement as to what work I shall do if elected:

1. Engineers should have Greater Recognition and Voice on the Campus.

2. A Weekly Column in the Daily, stressing the Professional Character of Engineering.

3. A solution to an urgent need: more lockers.

4. The New Union should be near the Engineering Building. I shall press for exclusively engineering facilities.

5. An Engineering Queen.

6. Greater attention, coverage and publicity in the Daily for intramural sports.

In conclusion, may I say that I have served on the EUS Executive and that, with your support, I shall continue to serve with a true engineering spirit.

Maurice G. Vezina

Pen Sketch

"Mo" Vezina is a logical choice for SEC, because of his fine capabilities as a leader and because of his extensive background of knowledge and experience.

He is 23 years old and in Civil Eng. 2 at McGill. Activities at McGill: Publicity Manager, EUS Executive, 1954; Chairman of Polytechnique, McGill Smoker, 1954; Co-Chairman of Speaker's Forum, 1954; Member OEA Honorary Society.

An SEC member must:

1. Encourage and hear opinions from those he represents on matters which are or should be the subject of SEC consideration, and voice these at meetings;

2. Attend all meetings to keep those he represents informed on its proceedings, and to give them a voice and vote;

3. Keep those students informed by posting minutes of SEC meetings on the Faculty bulletin board;

4. Give the time and work necessary to carry out these duties. If elected, I will do these things.

1. As a scholar, Avrum has proved himself by being awarded MacDonald Entrance, A. & S. Faculty, and University scholarships, by graduating from Arts with Great Distinction in the General Course, by leading his BCL I class.

2. As a participant in campus activities, he has been active in interclass, interfaculty, intercollegiate debating, was member of his B.A.I. class executive, member and chairman of the A. & S. Debating Committee, member of the executive of the Debating Union Society, chairman of the Model Parliament Steering Committee, member of the Combined Charities Executive; received the "Gold A" in debating, the A. & S. debating championship in 1951 and 1953, "A" and "B" ASUS awards for executive ability.

By Irwin Margoliese

In order to allow the student to become familiar with their future SEC representatives, each candidate was given a series of questions dealing with subjects of prime importance to the SEC. These questions gave the candidate an opportunity to express his or her view on these subjects. The answers to the first two questions appear today. The questions were: (1) Do you think McGill should stay in the NFCUS? 2 — (a) How much do you think the Student Society surplus should be? (b) It is now about $48,000. On what do you think the excess should be spent?

Answers were received as follows:

ARTS AND SCIENCE

Coleen Cooll: (1) "Under its present policy, McGill should withdraw from NFCUS, but if NFCUS would, (a) re-examine and amend its constitution, (b) retract some of its unrealistic promises, and (c) adopt a policy of cooperation rather than dictation, then, perhaps, McGill could remain within the organization."

2 — (a) "A standing reserve of $10,000 should be set aside to meet any SEC emergency. (b) The remainder should be used to assist the various clubs on the campus, to help the Daily and other McGill publications, or as the first installment on a New Union fund."

Sean Gresham: (1) "I think we should withdraw on a temporary basis, for under the present conditions, NFCUS is as effective as a toothless old hag."

2 — "I believe that $1,000 is a reasonably budgeted surplus. The present surplus would be better employed if used as part payment for a new Union site, to show that we mean business."

Anne Lucas: (1) "In principle, NFCUS is a wonderful organization. They should be given a little more opportunity to see if they can do something better in the line of scholarships and student exchange."

2 — "Enough should be kept to cover emergencies which might arise. The rest should be used on bursaries, cheaper text books for students, and towards a new Union."

Barbara Notkin: (1) "NFCUS has demonstrated itself capable of action, limited though it has been. McGill should remain within the National Organization, while reorganizing herself to present the committee with suggestions for functionalizing its principles. Only in this way can concrete advancement be achieved."

2 — "An emergency fund, not exceeding $5,000 should be maintained. The excess should be divided approximately as follows: 50% towards the new Union, 25% on students through undergraduate societies, 25% maintenance and improvement of the old Union."

Wilson Southam: (1) "McGill sent four very capable elected representatives to this year's National NFCUS conference. They were to make this decision. They have made it, and I agree with them."

2 — "A minimum of $10,000, preferably $20,000. The remainder should be divided between an improvement fund and towards the new Union when the appeal for funds is made."

John Sanderson: (1) "Not under present conditions. In my estimation, McGill students are simply wasting money on an idea, which while noble, is doomed to failure through lack of cohesion among Canadian University Students."

2 — (a) The surplus should cover all emergencies, no more. (b) Allocation of the present surplus: part to the Daily for a Wednesday issue, the rest, minus a small reserve as a cushion, to a new Union."

Hugh Faulkner: (1) "The goals which NFCUS is attempting to achieve are excellent and should be supported. However, I feel these goals will only be realized through an extensive change in the present method."

2 — "Approximately $10,000 would be a reasonable surplus. The excess, this year, should be spent to the mutual advantage of all students, and the present SEC policy seems to be doing that."

DENTISTRY

Don Beauprie: "We should stay in NFCUS and give our members the support they need. Their huge tasks cannot be done in a short time. We pay almost as much money to the debating union, but with less hue and cry. I am strongly in favour of more bursaries and scholarships."

2 — "A sufficiently large surplus should be maintained to meet emergencies. The excess be spent on more scholarships and bursaries, increased grants to clubs and societies, decreased prices to student events, cafeteria improvement, and towards a new Union fund."

Frank Shamy: "Yes, although I deplore the ineffectiveness of the organization under its present set-up. NFCUS can become a respected working force only if all Canadian Universities continue their active participation in it."

COMMERCE

Clarence Blatt: (1) "NFCUS, this year, is facing a great test;— it has finally gotten the money it has asked for. Only if it succeeds in its' present program, am I in favour of McGill remaining within the organization."

(2) "The surplus of the Student Society should be sufficient to cover all necessary contingencies. The balance should be appropriated towards the financing of a new Union, the erection of which has become a necessity for allevia-

(2) "Three to five thousand is a reasonable surplus. The rest should go towards a new Union. If this is not feasible, how about a scholarship fund?"

Maurice Vezina: (1) "Since NFCUS has been in existence long enough to prove itself, and since it has shown that there is no tangible advantage to be gained from its continued existence, I see no real argument for paying a 50c fee to sustain this organization."

(2) "A Student Society surplus is certainly desirable, but should be kept within a reasonable fraction of the budget. $48,000 is excessive. By and large the money should be returned to the Undergraduate Societies, and special grants, such as the $17,000 to the Daily and a free Football Dance, should be voted on by the respective Undergraduate Society Executives."

ARCHITECTURE

Michael Fish: (1) "Definitely, — NFCUS is the only conceivable National Organization which is set up to deal with student problems of national scope. McGill, as one of the largest and best known members, should lend her full support to building NFCUS up and making it a success."

(2) "Between $15, and $20,000 is enough to meet emergencies. The present surplus should be spent in improving student spirit, and in helping the New Union Committee get a firm foothold."

Radoslav Zuk: (1) "Yes, a national federation representing all Canadian students is a must. NFCUS has great possibilities, but to accomplish its aims it needs a strong support from every university."

(2) "It should not exceed $10,000. The rest should go towards the New Union Fund, SEC scholarships, and the immediate needs of the general student body."

BLUES CAPTURE YATES TROPHY

METRAS LOSES HEARTBREAK FINAL

by MARV GOLDSMITH

Lost in the confusion following one of the most exciting and shocking Grey Cup games ever played was the conclusion to the closest and most spine-tingling intercollegiate football season that Eastern Canada has ever witnessed.

While Bernie Faloney was compounding a felony and stealing a ball game from the hands of the Montreal Alouettes, the University of Toronto Blues edged out the Western Mustangs 9-8 to cop the Intercollegiate Football League championship.

With millions of pairs of eyes glued to TV sets all over the continent to watch Chuck Hunsinger make like Fred Merkle, Mickey Owens and "Wrong-way" Corrigan all at once, a thrilling climax was written into the record books as Varsity won their first game in 17 years in London, all done in relative obscurity.

Bucking the competition of the Edmonton-Montreal final, the Army-Navy game, and the weather, the Blues managed to temporarily halt the virtual monopoly on the college title held by the Mustangs. Playing in a combination of rain and snow, mixed with mud and slime from the gridiron, Toronto out-mudpied the Western aggregation to spell finis to a season marked by confusion, frustration, ineligibility, tension, drama and some tremendous pigskin battles.

The confusion was evident in several places, with the most confused people being those who followed closely the deliberations of the league solons. The governing body had the outright insolence to throw McMaster out of the league, thereby confusing everyone, and since McGill didn't agree, there was theoretically no league. Since all games were only exhibitions, then, who had the right to declare players ineligible?

On top of all this, when a three-way tie forced a dramatic finish to the season play, a coin was tossed to decide who would play who. Ah, but here's the rub — what would have happened if Toronto hadn't won the toss, and by a combination of circumstances Saturday's game would have had to be played at Varsity Stadium instead of in Western's home grounds? What would have happened to the Grey Cup game? Confusing, isn't it?

The tension and drama became evident two weeks ago when Toronto played Queen's in the last regular game of the season. A win by Toronto would force a three way tie, provided of course that the Western Mustangs beat the frustrated and partially ineligible McGill Redmen. A win by the Golden Gaels would completely eliminate the Blues. So what happened — the Gaels, leading by nine points late in the fourth quarter, suddenly fell apart at the seams and allowed the Varsity squad to score 11 points and set the scene for a three-way tie.

The next week in Kingston, the Gaels once again had a fourth-quarter lead, but this time it was on the last play and Western was losing 18-15. The desperate Mustangs tried a 35-yard field goal which fell short. The ball was fumbled by Ron Stewart, a star Queen's back, was pounced upon by a Western end for a touchdown, and once again the Gaels had blown the game.

The scene shifts now to Little Memorial Stadium in London for the final between Western and Toronto. After winning seven championships in nine years, the Mustangs were favoured to repeat. It was only last year that the Purple and Gold held off a powerful Toronto squad in the post-season playoff to win 12-6, and another Yates Trophy for Johnny Metras.

Steve Oneschuk, playing his last game in a Toronto uniform, led his team on to victory with a typical effort. Oneschuk scored all nine points for his team, including a field goal in the first quarter and a touchdown in the third quarter which he converted. John Girwin scored a major for Western which was converted by all-star Gino Fracas, Fracas, who led the league in scoring for the past two years, missed two field goals but was credited with a couple of singles when the attempts were wide of the goal-posts.

The game ended with Western trying desperately to score the tying point. A Toronto kick was returned by Gino Fracas into the Varsity end-zone but was run out to the eight-yard line by Oneschuk.

Western Coeds Win Swimming Trophy

It seems that local teams, the Montreal Alouettes and the McGill Women's Intercollegiate Swimming squad were jinxed this week-end. The gals in Red and White, last year's champs, dropped the coveted Intercollegiate trophy to the Western Mermaids, who managed to chalk up a total of 39 points. Toronto followed with 30, McGill 28, and Queens with 26.

The Western Powerhouse, in the process of swimming its way to victory, broke two records. Mary Munn swam the 50 yard breast stroke in 35.1 breaking the record held by former McGillian, Joan Croll, and Jackie Tait accomplished the 75 individual medley in 54.5 seconds.

Nevertheless, McGill did capture top laurels in three events. Joen Orser copped first place in the synchronized figure as well as in the solo routine entitled 'Sea Fantasy'. The duet 'Twins from Siam' done by Betty and Sheila Lindsay was also awarded first prize.

Sheila Roy placed a close second in the 50 yard back stroke while in the field of diving, Liz Loebel came third out of seven divers.

The absence of Dotty Greetham was really felt. It was the opinion of all that if she would have been present, McGill would have taken the second slot. Sheila Shklar.

Poloists Out To Down Y In Return Match

This Tuesday night the Red waterpolo septet plays the Dominion champs, the YMHA, in their opponents home pool. This will be the last intercity league game for the Ashton ensemble before the team travels down to Toronto to tackle the Blues for the Intercollegiate title in a two game home from home series.

The locals, still smarting from their last outing against the Y, when they lost a real heartbreaker 11-9, will be going all out to even the score. The highlight of the last game was the smart checking and coordination of the Redmen in the first three quarters, and then a sudden fade out in the last period. This lack of stamina or staying power seems to be the worst fault of an otherwise 'good polo team.

With four games of the league schedule played, the tally for the local poloists is two game won and two lost. The two victories were chalked up against the Palestre National septet. by impressive scores. The defeats against the Y and the YMCA were lost to a very large extent to coach Ashton being unable to play the best possible team due to injuries.

The Y team is on the average much taller and heavier than the locals. Though this is not usually vital in a polo game as standing on the bottom is not allowed, against the Y that's quite a disadvantage. This is largely due to the Y's charming little water manners such as holding their opponents, practicing long distance walking on the bottom and occasional bouts of fisticuffs. In their last encounter with the locals the Y coach humourously (?) inquired if the wrestling mats were ready.

For Tuesday's game coach Ashton will probably be able to play a full team complete with Miloslavie and Kirka. Norm has been coaching the team intensively and the boys have been shaping up well. This is a vital game for the red septet and the boys will be going all out. Game time is 8-30, at the YMHA pool.

What's news at Inco*?

Soon... iron from a nickel mine

615 feet above some high ground near Copper Cliff, Ontario, the tallest chimney in the British Commonwealth will soon rear its nickel-chrome stainless steel crown.

It will be the symbol of a victory by Inco's research staffs over a problem that has defied solution for a great many years. The problem was how to extract iron from the nickel ore at a profit.

Inco's faith in its trail-blazing new process is being shown by the expenditure of $16 million on the first unit of a plant that will eventually produce a million tons a year of iron ore of a quality never before produced in quantity in North America.

This is but one of the history-making developments undertaken at Inco in recent years which have so far required the allocation of $160 million of Inco's own funds.

"The Romance of Nickel", a 72-page book, fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.
